

The Todd Foundation Awards for Excellence (ITPs)

The funds for these awards are provided by the income from a substantial gift by The Todd Corporation Ltd. to The Todd Foundation. In making this gift, the Directors of The Todd Corporation requested that the Foundation support projects that promote excellence, have a wide franchise and encourage the development of new concepts, technology or research.

Object

The object of The Todd Foundation Awards for Excellence is to encourage research and achievement which will benefit New Zealand.

Purpose

The Todd Foundation Awards for Excellence are granted to support students in undertaking projects carried out in an institute of technology, in New Zealand, in a field of study which is likely to be of direct benefit to New Zealand and its people. The emphasis is on projects which have a practical application.

The Todd Foundation Awards for Excellence (ITPs) are available in four categories:

- Science and Technology (includes Agriculture and Conservation)
- Engineering and Manufacturing (includes Architecture and Design)
- Business and Commerce
- Health and Social Sciences

There is no limit on the numbers of applications considered for any of the categories above, and if the Selection Committee deems that no suitable candidate has been identified for a particular category then the number of awards made in other categories can be increased.

The award can be used in a variety of ways to support the achievement of the desired project outcomes. For example, the award may be used to finance attendance at a relevant conference, to provide for travel to interview experts in the field, to purchase equipment or to fund living expenses for a research spell at a different location.
